3 BUSINESS REVIEW AND OUTLOOK

In the first half of 2025, the medical industry is in a period of interweaving between the deepening iteration of the policy system and the upgrading of service demand structure. On the one hand, the reform of medical insurance payment methods continues to advance in depth, the competitive situation in the regional medical market is increasingly intensified, and the industry ecology is accelerating restructuring and differentiation. On the other hand, with the changes in the national population structure and the improvement of health awareness, the social demand for mental health care and elderly medical services is also rising, showing significant characteristics of diversification, quality-oriented and stratification. Facing the complex and changing external environment, the Group has always adhered to the original intention of medical practitioners, focused on the stable operation of the two main businesses of mental health care and elderly medical care, relied on refined management and innovation in service models, consolidated business resilience, and strived to build Kangning's characteristic core competitiveness, aiming to move forward steadily in the wave of industry changes.

Looking forward, the Group will firmly seize the opportunities presented by the ageing population and the escalating demand for psychiatric health services, conduct in-depth analysis of industry policies and market development trends, and establish a development pattern driven by “psychiatric healthcare service” and “elderly healthcare service”. Meanwhile, the Group will take the medical insurance payment reform as an opportunity to increase its investment in scientific research, promote the iteration of its smart medical platform, strengthen refined operation management, expand patient service scenarios, actively explore synergetic system along upstream and downstream industry chains, and continue to enhance its core competitiveness.
